From the Daily Times and Frank Lesfte's Illustrated Newspaper, Nov. 21, which contains a beautiful engraving of Miss Keene as Ogarita, the Wild Flower of Mexico.
Few dramas have had a more checkered career than THE SEA OF ICE. It has been lavishly produced in all the principal cities of America and England, to say nothing of France, whence the original is obtained. In some places it has been received with enthusiasm: in others it was a dead failure. Laura Keene brought it outfor the third time, but the first that it has achieved success. The secret of the matter is that, although a spectacular drama in the largest sense of the word, the needs something more than seenery to make it succeed. The plot of the piece required to be unfolded with care and skill. There are several important parts that cannot be entrusted to feeble hands. It was only in those places where a good stock company was at hand that "The Sea of Ice" has met with a success commensurate with its merits—which, although lengthy, are real. In Baltimore we believe the piece had a long run, and as Mr. Jefferson played the principal conic character there, it is reasonable to believe that he had something to do with it, and that his talents contribute to a similar result in New York.

Miss Laura Keene has at hand all the facilities for giving the piece with unusual effect. Beginning with herself as the much-tried mother, and going through the entire company, we have a combination of rare artistic excellence, such as is seldom besiowed on a spectacular drams. Then in the seenic department—where are things done better than at Laura Keene's? On the least worthy trifles all that care and experience can sug
